

LIFESAFE

A Single Mental Wellness App For People Seeking Support

Made By Jayden Ankrah, Leonardo Odagui, and Dylan Kukulka

| What is LIFESAFE

LIFESAFE is a digital wellness platform designed to make every day mental health support more accessible

Users can journal their emotions, track their wellbeing, connect with friends and loved ones, access helpful resources, and interact with an AI support companion

| The Problem

Traditional Mental Health Care

- Stigma can prevent people from seeking help
- Long wait times
- High cost and accessibility challenges
- Fragmented digital support: separate apps for journaling, meditation, crisis help, and social support

Users often must navigate multiple tools when they need support the most

Goals For LIFESAFE

Our goal is not to replace professional care; it is to make support easier to access

Safety

Provide users with accessible resources when they need support

Self-Worth

Help users build a healthier relationship with themselves

Self-Improvement

Encourage reflection, journaling, and building healthy habits

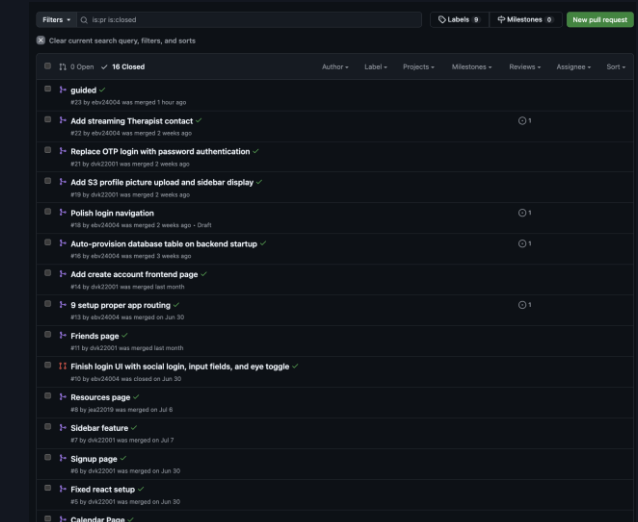

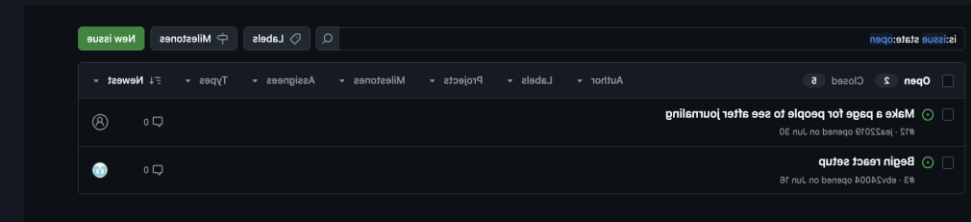

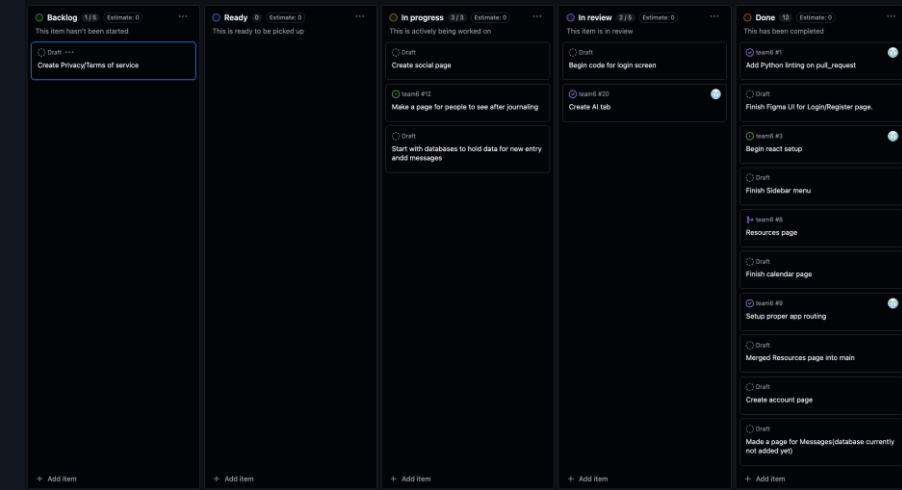

How We Organized

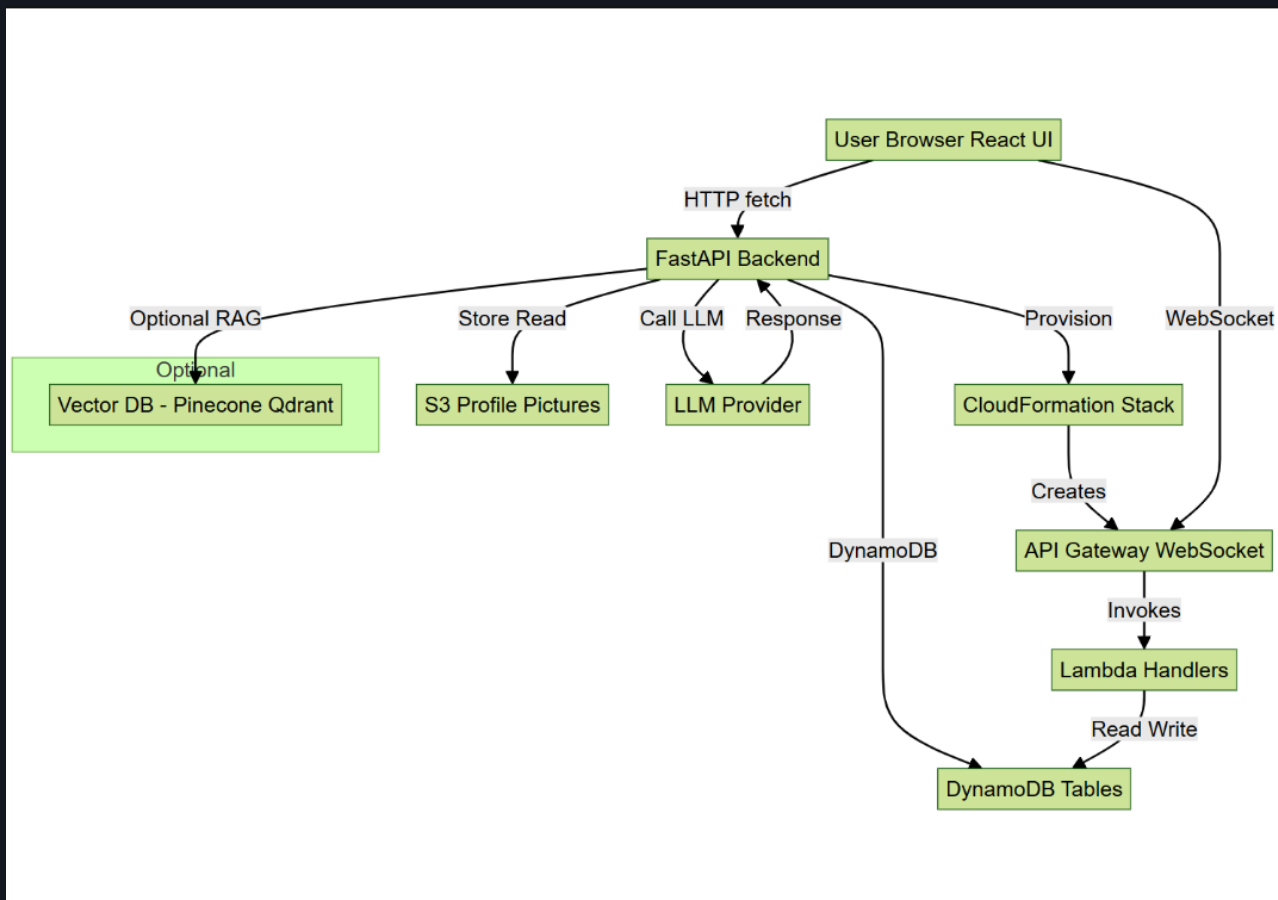

Meeting: Once a week we met as a team and discussed the progression of the app

GitHub Kanban: We tracked individually the status of all our features/functionality so everyone was up to date on what each other was working on

GitHub Pull Requests: We ensured all our individual work was committed to separate "branches" to ensure nobody's code overwrote another's work

Architecture Diagram

The React frontend communicates with our FastAPI backend, which connects the application to AWS services for data storage, authentication, real-time messaging, and AI functionality

Problems Faced And Solutions Found

Problems

Implementing AI

We didn't know how to build the AI assistant or what to use for it

Reduced Team Capacity

Our team began with six members but after the first few weeks, only three remained actively involved

Learning Curve

Features we wanted to build required knowledge and skills we did not yet have

Solutions

Proper Handling

In the end we used GPT 5.5 Nano and used it as our AI therapist using an API key

Task Management

We learned how to properly distribute the weight equally for the tasks received

Off Task Learning

We learned off YouTube tutorials to fill in our gaps of knowledge

Development

Used AI to help understand unfamiliar technologies, debug errors, and accelerate development

Support

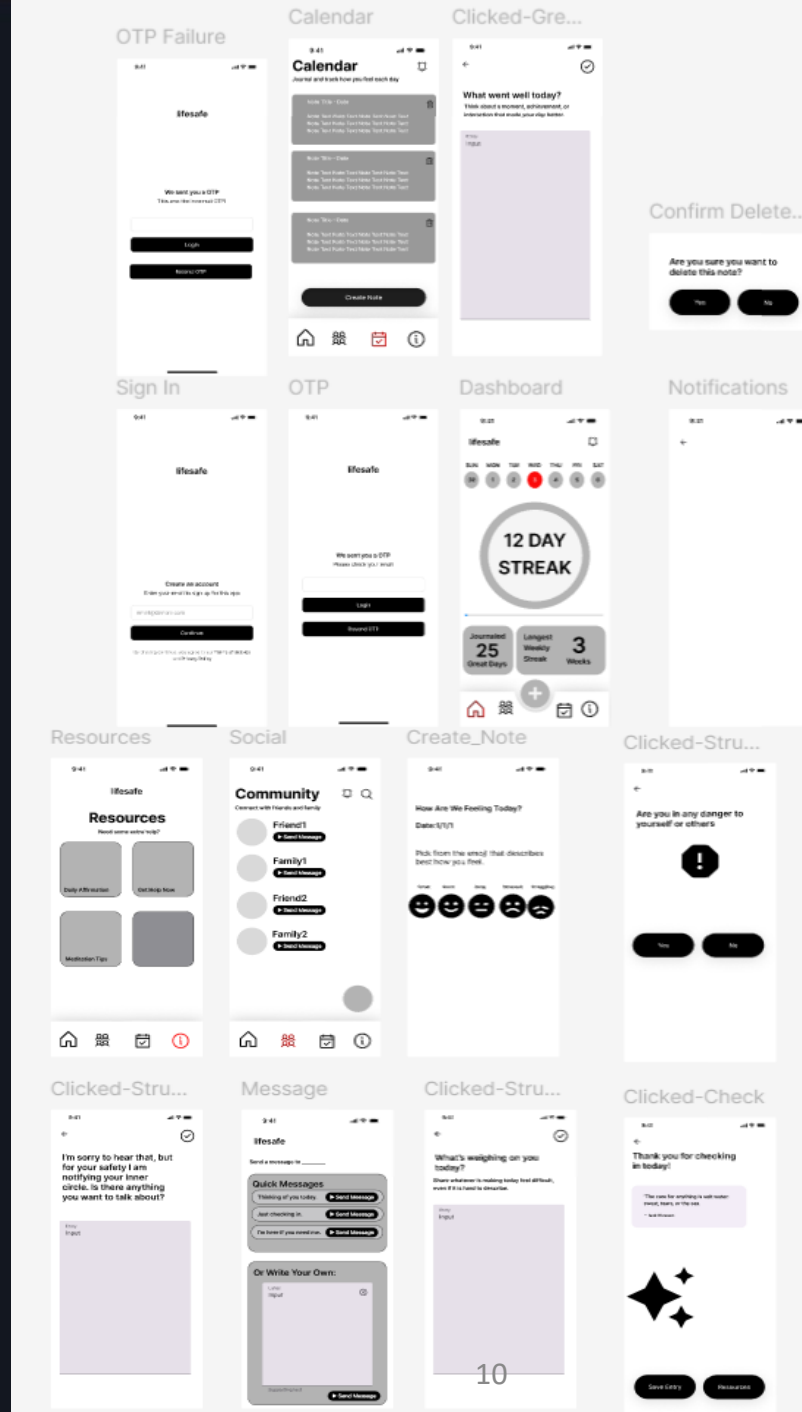

Integrated an AI-powered conversational support experience into LIFESAFE

Prototype

Figma Prototype

We made a prototype and overview of how our app should work and connect to each other; some things were implemented after the prototype such as the AI therapist
